David A. Brooks at Brooks Cruise Services Earns Adventurist Certification From InnerSea Discoveries

Houston, Texas, October 12, 2011 – David A. Brooks at Houston-based Brooks Cruise Services completed a specialized training program and is now certified as an Adventurist with InnerSea Discoveries, a small ship cruise line offering expeditions in Southeast Alaska.

To join the Adventurist Club, travel agents must participate in three web presentations and pass an exam. The Adventurist program focuses on the active adventure un-cruise vacation offered by InnerSea Discoveries' two expedition ships—60-guest Wilderness Adventurer and 76-guest Wilderness Discoverer.

“We commend travel agents who take the time to complete the certification program,” said Tim Jacox, executive vice president of sales and marketing, InnerSea Discoveries. “By becoming a specialist, agents have the expertise to paint a clear picture of our small-group cruise vacations for their clients.”

With a focus on exploring scenic wilderness areas, the ships sail between Juneau and Ketchikan (and reverse) from May through September on a Western Coves and Eastern Coves itinerary. When combined, it becomes the two-week Ultimate Adventure. A two-week Wilderness Passages of Discovery cruise between Seattle, WA and Juneau, AK (and reverse) is offered in spring and fall.

David serves as President of Brooks Cruise Services a full service travel agency with a focus on delivering incredible cruise vacation experiences to clients.
